

Module 10 Workbook — Design-Ready Content

"Protect & Scale Your Business"

Purpose of this document: the finished, design-ready content for the Module 10 capstone workbook. Built as a launch document, not a learning worksheet — most fields are reference, action plan, and toolkit index rather than fill-ins. The 90-day plan and the master toolkit index are the highest-value reusable assets. Uses the shared workbook design system from Module 1 (cover block, section headers, input glossary, quick-win callout, reference callout, completion gate, footer).

Annotation key: [INPUT: ...] = fillable element + suggested space · [NOTE: ...] = design intent · unbracketed text = final on-page copy.

Design note for capstone: this workbook should feel slightly more elevated than the others — the creator finished a course, and the document they leave with should reflect that. Suggest treating the Master Toolkit Index (Part E) as a designed centerpiece, possibly with a different visual treatment from the other parts.

Cover Block

[NOTE: standard cover component, but consider slightly elevated visual treatment for the capstone. Progress dots 1–10 with ALL dots active and a small "Complete" indicator.] - Course: The Complete Brand Partnership Playbook - Module 10 · Protect & Scale (Capstone) - Workbook: Protect & Scale Your Business - Promise line: Your final filter, your 90-day plan, and the master toolkit you'll use for years.

PART A — Red Flags Watchlist

[NOTE: reference asset, not a fill-in. The five categories from the lesson, designed to be printed/saved and run past every deal that comes in. The pattern-recognition note at the bottom is the most important line.]

Your purpose line (on page): Run every deal past this list. One flag may be explainable. Two or three together is a pattern — and patterns don't reverse.

[INPUT: 5-category checklist, reference only:]

Payment red flags - ☐ Won't discuss payment until after content is created - ☐ Asks me to pay them (platform access, samples, "creator program fees") - ☐ Net-90 or longer payment terms with no flexibility - ☐ Refuses any upfront payment for a new partnership

"Exposure" as currency - ☐ Pitches "exposure" or "followers" in lieu of meaningful payment

Structural exploitation - ☐ Bundling many things into one price (10 posts + usage + exclusivity + creative control for one-post pricing) - ☐ Unlimited revisions without extra pay - ☐ Demands that don't scale with what they're paying

Refusal to put things in writing - ☐ Resists contracts or wants to "keep it casual" - ☐ Gets defensive when written terms are requested

Pressure tactics - ☐ Manufactured urgency ("decide today") - ☐ "Take-it-or-leave-it" framings - ☐ References to "other creators waiting"

Quick-win callout [NOTE: highlighted box.] Pattern recognition matters more than any single flag. One thing might be a disorganized brand — workable. Two or three together is a pattern. Trust it.

PART B — The Decline-Gracefully Template

[NOTE: reusable script with adaptable middle line for the four most common scenarios. Designer: consider rendering as an email mock-up.]

Your purpose line (on page): Saying no well is what gives you the bandwidth to say yes to the right deals. Use this template.

The template [NOTE: render as an email block]

"Thanks so much for thinking of me for this — I appreciate you reaching out. After looking at the details, this particular opportunity isn't quite the right fit for my business right now. [INSERT REASON LINE] I'd love to stay in touch though, and if something different comes up down the line, please don't hesitate to reach out."

Pick the reason line that fits [INPUT: 4-row reference table]

Scenario	Reason line to use
Rate too low	"The compensation doesn't align with my rates for this type of deliverable."
Usage rights overreach	"The usage rights structure doesn't work for me at this rate."
Bad timeline	"The timeline doesn't line up with my current commitments."
Wrong fit / off-brand	"It's not quite aligned with what I focus on right now."

Quick-win callout [NOTE: highlighted box.] Don't over-explain. The biggest mistake creators make in declines is long defensive paragraphs. Short, professional, gracious — that's the whole skill.

PART C — Your Business Audit

[NOTE: short reflective audit before the 90-day plan. Honest self-assessment across the system the course built. Designed to surface the weakest link so the 90-day plan can address it.]

Your purpose line (on page): Be honest. The point isn't to score — it's to surface what to work on first.

[INPUT: 10-row self-assessment. Columns: Module · Where I am now · Confidence (1–5)]

#	Module · System	Confidence (1–5)
1	I know my engagement rate, audience, and what I'm worth	[1–5]
2	I have a target-brand list of 20+ and a pipeline habit	[1–5]
3	I have a clear filter for which deals to take	[1–5]
4	I can price a deal with confidence, including usage and exclusivity	[1–5]
5	I can write a pitch that gets replies	[1–5]
6	I can negotiate without flinching	[1–5]
7	I use a real contract on every paid deal	[1–5]
8	I deliver content to a brand-ready standard and send performance reports	[1–5]
9	I have at least one path to recurring monthly income in motion	[1–5]
10	I have the systems and boundaries to run this for years	[1–5]

My weakest link (lowest score): [INPUT: short line] The Module I'll re-watch / re-read first:

PART D — Your 90-Day Action Plan

[NOTE: THE highest-leverage asset of the capstone. Three 30-day blocks from the lesson, each with concrete actions tied to specific module workbooks. Each row has a target date and a checkbox. This is what determines whether the course becomes a business.]

Your purpose line (on page): A course without a plan is inspiration. This is the plan.

Quick-win callout [NOTE: highlighted box.] Run the system. Block one recurring 90-minute slot a week for pipeline work, and one quarterly hour for review. That's the entire infrastructure of a sustainable creator business.

PART E — Your Master Toolkit Index

[NOTE: capstone centerpiece. Inventory of every asset the creator now has – workbooks, existing lmg.media resources, and the three tools. Consider a slightly elevated visual treatment – this is the "you have everything you need" moment.]

Your purpose line (on page): Every working tool of your business, in one place. Keep this index — you'll come back to it.

The 10 workbooks [NOTE: render as a clean list with module + workbook title] 1. Module 1 — Where You Are, Where You're Going 2. Module 2 — Build Your Pipeline 3. Module 3 — Your Deal Filter 4. Your three asset packs - Outreach Email & DM Templates — for every pitch and follow-up (Module 5) - Brand Partnership Negotiation Toolkit — the deep negotiation reference (Module 6) - Influencer Contract Template — the standalone reference contract (Module 7)

Quick-win callout [NOTE: highlighted box.] These aren't one-time references. They're the working tools of your business. Bookmark them, save them locally, and reuse them on every deal.

Completion Gate

[NOTE: standard component, but with a capstone framing. Slightly elevated language.]

You've completed the course when you've: [INPUT: 5 checkboxes:] ☐ Reviewed the red-flags watchlist (Part A) ☐ Saved the decline-gracefully template (Part B) ☐ Done your honest business audit (Part C) ☐ Filled in your 90-day action plan with target dates (Part D) ☐ Bookmarked your master toolkit (Part E)

The course is finished. The business starts now. Send the pitch. Send the report. Run the system.
